

05-07

to go back to the orphanage and practice being like the man who all the girls loved, since I had my new Buster Brown shoes. It was the new haircut, though, that I needed to complete my new look. We finally arrived at the unassuming, unembellished barbershop, where they cut our hair for free because we were