

07-16

not felt in a very long time. Then she saw her mother, who was cheering the loudest of all in the crowd, and Jill, who was beaming at her with pride from the wings. She knew she owed them big time for reminding her what she was capable of and who she really was. The next time her phone bleeped she would tap the message straight into