monster," said the Lord of the Manor. To not examine the head in advance had not been very clever on the part of the huntsman. Right away, the Lord noticed the tongue of the boar was missing and exclaimed, "What is this? A boar with no tongue?" He looked at the huntsman, dubiously. "How