02-06

Aqua and his friends were like fish out of water, so they grew quite dizzy. They enjoyed looking down on the world below while the wind scattered them across the four corners of the earth, but after a while, it grew nearly time for the Sun to go to bed. He became very red in the face, and began to sink lower and lower, until suddenly he went