03-08

that a burning match might be of some good. Scratch! sounded the match as she drew it out. How it sputtered as it burnt! It gave a warm, candle-like bright light that the girl hid from the world as she held her hand over it. Why had no one wanted to buy even one match? A wonderful light, it was really. It seemed to the girl that she