04-02

himself the de facto king, arrived fashionably late. It was a hawk who was most excited about the meeting because he was the dark horse for king. The small fry came too, and the robin, the bluebird, the owl, the lark, and the sparrow, who had only a chance in a million to be king, were all present at the meeting. The cuckoo, who was almost not