04-08

ace up his sleeve and he laughed to himself at how easy it had been to outwit the other birds. Higher and higher he mounted until he was lost to sight, and then folding his wings together, he sank to earth crying shrilly, "I am king! I am king!" The eagle, tricked by the little bird, had not sensed the