proud of being a little different. But text-by-text, Lucy's self-confidence had deflated and, in the end, it had taken some doing to get her to agree to perform in the show. Now, however, Lucy had no choice but to make her way towards the stage where Jill was beckoning encouragingly to her. She was the first performer.