09-17

payment of a ten percent fee. Attempts that were made to resolve the situation to the satisfaction of all parties were unsuccessful. The mania finally ended, Mackay says, with individuals stuck with the bulbs they held at the end of the crash. No court would enforce payment of a contract, since judges regarded the