symptoms or atypical presentation, such as onset of symptoms in adulthood, may require specialty expertise for diagnosis. There are no blood or laboratory tests needed for diagnosis. However, neuroimaging studies, which include magnetic resonance imaging, computerized