01-11

huntsman knew a shortcut to the Manor House was just around the nearby pond, and, being a bigger man than the first, was able to pick up the boar's head and carry it through the wood towards the prize that awaited him. The Lord of the Manor was seated in his hall when the second huntsman burst through