02-08

all of his brothers and sisters, into a heavy gray cloud, after which he blew them apart and told them to hurry down, fast and furious to the earth so they could have a fighting chance of reaching the ocean. Down they went, rolling over each other until with a patter and clatter and spatter they touched the ground, and all the people that the raindrops fell on