07-09

take place, Jill filled with excitement while Lucy regretted that she had promised her mother she would participate in the show. "To waste your talent would be a real shame, for you have such a beautiful voice," her mother had argued two months back when the concert was first announced. Lucy had been considering it,