

07-13

unlike her older sister, was not confident enough to put herself before the judging audience. The crowd looked up at her and Lucy was ready to run when the first notes of the music sounded out and a sudden calm settled over her. She closed her eyes and shut everything out, including the audience, the nerves that threatened to take over, the text