

09-12

sell and buy contracts to buy bulbs at the end of the season. Traders met at taverns and buyers were required to pay a fee per trade. People were purchasing bulbs at higher and higher prices, intending to re-sell them for a profit. However, such a scheme could not last unless someone was ultimately willing to